

Jobs available at The Botanist

The Botanist will open on Monday 7th August in St James Quarter and there are jobs available now.

The bar and restaurant will be the second Botanist in the city with a host of positions for cocktail-savvy enthusiasts this Summer.

There are a total of 50-60 positions available across both front and back of house in its new location, including a position as Duty Manager and Sous Chef. The Botanist will become a go to for Festival-goers and New Town-dwellers alike, and the team encourages individuals to bring their creativity, individuality and personal flair to each of the roles.

Rachel Guy, Operations Manager at New World Trading Company said: "Our stunning new flagship venue brings the opportunity for exceptional individuals to join us. Joining the business at the start of our journey means you'll be bringing our unique brand to life in Edinburgh with the help of award-winning training."

The brand, renowned for its grand botanical-inspired interiors, will feature an outdoor seating terrace as well as a space to host live music and performance; a perfect opportunity for those wanting to begin their journey into the industry in its picturesque, nature-themed surroundings.
