

Five things you need to know today

Cycling

The UCI World Cycling Championships Men Elite Road Race began in Edinburgh on Sunday morning. The race then encountered a protest by This is Rigged in Fife which held up the race for almost an hour.

There are some photos of the scenes in Edinburgh here and on our Facebook page.

There were many cyclists, but hundreds of motorbikes and cars supporting the athletes, and although this is a sporting spectacle questions must be asked about the green credentials of the UCI Cycling World Championships.

Fringe

We have already published several five star reviews of some Fringe shows that our reviewers have been to see.

Read our articles here about the Fringe and any reviews.

We have also rounded up some of the shows we saw in the preview press galas with details of them and what you might expect to see. You will also find them in our Culture section. Do let us know about anything you see that you really enjoy.

Roadworks in Edinburgh this week

The usual weekly list of roadworks and events in the city are published here.

Some drivers had obviously not heard of the road closures on Sunday morning for a major sporting event passing through the city centre, and many were caught out having to make U-turns when stopped by police.

What's on at Jupiter Artland

Jupiter Artland and Edinburgh Art Festival today reveals a very special guest who will join the lineup for JUPITER RISING x EAF 2023 which takes place on Saturday 19 August from 6pm until 1am at Jupiter Artland, the middle weekend of Edinburgh Festival.

Lena Dunham will join artist Lindsey Mendick for Shameful Women, a special conversation at JUPITER RISING x EAF.

Having both challenged conventions and sparked crucial conversations through their respective works, in this special one-off event, Lindsey and Lena will speak openly and honestly about their personal experiences, as well as exploring what Shameful Women means to them and the ways in which it impacts their lives.

Lena Dunham is a writer, director, actor and producer born and raised in New York City. Her first feature length film, Tiny Furniture, won an Independent Spirit Award for Best First Screenplay. She is the creator and star of HBO's Girls, which ran for six seasons and garnered 11 Primetime Emmy nominations. She won two Golden Globes, a Writer's Guild Award and was the first woman to win the DGA award for best director for a television comedy. Her prose has been published in The New Yorker, The Guardian, Vogue, Harper's Magazine and The New York Times.

Jupiter Rising is curated by rising star artist Lindsey Mendick, whose solo commission *SH*TFACED* is currently presented across Jupiter Artland's galleries. Mendick has rapidly established herself as one of the most important artists of her generation. She works predominantly with clay, and houses her artwork in life-like installations, recreating scenes from her personal life. *SH*TFACED* is her largest commission to date and presents a contemporary view of duality and supposed binaries between good and evil, virtue and depravity and gender roles.

“These two women bring their power of observation and relentlessly confessional instincts to site their work in a most compelling medium themselves. This talk is not about women and shame, it’s an exploration about shameful, proud women that transmute shame into observations that resonate with us all. Mendick does not shy away from confession and mess as she presents unflinching observations of the power of drink – it’s fun and it’s optimism alongside the messiness and regret that it also inflicts” says Jupiter Artland Founder and Director Nicky Wilson.

EDINBURGH CAPITAL READ FROM START TO FINISH

Capital firm living the Barbie dream
By PHYLIS STEPHEN

RACHEL HANRETTY started her business, Mademoiselle Macaron, in Edinburgh in 2013. Now some ten years later her trademark products - beautiful macarons - have a starring role in the very pink Greta Gerwig directed blockbuster movie of this summer, Barbie.

The pink delicacies were ordered in five flavours to be delivered to Warner Brothers Studio in Leavesden, and not just as a perk for the cast, but to appear in a café in Barbie Land.

This was easy for the company based in Bonnington which produces more than 30,000 macarons each week. Rachel learned how to craft the sweet treat in Paris where she first tasted a vanilla macaron on the Champs-Élysées. She attended the Alain Ducasse cookery school in the French capital to perfect making the macarons which is now the centre of her business.

Mademoiselle Macaron products have been on screen before. They appeared on Strictly Come Dancing in 2021 during a dance based in a bakery when a tall tower of macarons appeared on the set. And there is at least one big name that can be revealed as a macaron lover. Courtney Love is a repeat customer who orders their vegan product - and no, we don't know how they make them - the recipe is secret. And in exciting news the business is commissioned to colour match the new Revlon lipstick range in just the right shade.
