

Food and drink events to book now and enjoy in November

As the clocks go back next weekend, book some fun, food and drink events for November to get you through those long, dark days.

This is what Edinburgh's Culture Vulture will be up to in November.

Rick Stein

- Friday, 3 November, 7.30pm
- At the Tom Fleming Centre for Performing Arts, Stewart's Melville College, Queensferry Road, EH4 3EZ
- Join Toppings Bookstore to hear Stein talk on his new book Simple Suppers – a joyful collection of over 100 genuinely easy and delicious recipes paired with stories that celebrate the simple things in life.

Sherry Week 2023

6-12 November

Sherry lovers looking to sip their way around Edinburgh can follow specially designed routes – or 'Sherry Rutas' – that take in a number of bars, restaurants, and wine stores across the capital.

Fizz Feast – Raise your glasses

Saturday, 18 November, 12-3 pm and 4-7 pm

The annual celebration of sparkling wine and artisan food, with an effervescent line-up and two sessions to choose from. Tickets start at £25

Cockburns of Leith: Festive Showcase Wine Tasting

Friday, 24 November, 5.30 pm – 8.00 pm

Join Cockburns of Leith at the Merchants Hall on Hanover Street for an evening of festive fun, showcasing over 100 wines. Pick up a perfect present or a new addition to your winter wine rack.

Tickets – £30

<https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/cockburns-of-leith-festive-showcase-wine-tasting-tickets-714560609017?aff=oddtcreator>