Have a Nice Cup of Tea

You can't really say you were in London if you don't have tea in the afternoon. The traditional way is to drink your tea between 3 pm and 4 pm, but you can book any time you find appropriate.

The British people prepare tea and pastries at home, but you can choose from various tea salons, like The Diamond Jubilee Tea Salon at Fortnum & Mason, Afternoon tea at The Dorchester, or Afternoon tea at The Goring Hotel.

You can indeed feel like a royal, tasting the unique tea menu and enjoy the authentic taste every British person loves.

Visit Places Near London

London itself is a great experience, but there are quite a few places close to the city you shouldn't skip. For example, Stonehenge is one of the most important historical landmarks.

The Alton Tower is also a pretty nice place to explore since it's a resort with a whole village inside. The Warwick Castle is one of the oldest castles near London – a truly Instagram-worthy experience.

The New Forest is a remote area for those who want to experience the authentic British countryside experience. Also, you can join some activities like hiking and horse riding there. Finally, we suggest putting the Highclere Castle on your list, especially if you're a Downton Abbey fan.

Final Thoughts

As you can see, London offers a lot more than Big Ben, Buckingham Palace, and the well-known London Bridge. With a nice plan and already booked services for transportation, you can travel to this city in style and never miss a spot worth visiting.
