

Food, drink and craft event at new residential development

Developers of Glenfarg Apartments are holding an open house event
when they will also be celebrating Scottish artisan products.

At the apartments set in the village of Glenfarg in Perth & Kinross, there will be a free to attend celebration of artisan producers on Sunday 4 February between 1pm and 5pm to entertain prospective buyers.

Themed “Indulgence for Valentine’s Day” one of the artisan offerings will be from chocolatier and pastry chef, Jack Coghill, of Jack O’Bryan’s Bar & Kitchen in Dunfermline. Jack will demonstrate his skilful chocolate decorating techniques, and will provide his audience with plenty of opportunities to sample his delicious creations.

Other producers taking part include Cairn O' Mohr Winery who will showcase their ranges of wine, cider and beer, Cloverlea Apiaries, who will offer sampling of their local honey, and the New Lanark Spinning Company who will be selling their quality woollen yarns for knitting, along with other food and drink products such as traditional tablet and gin. Artistic steel work from creative blacksmith, Fine Iron Design, will also be on display.

Glenfarg Homes Director, David Craigie said; "We'd like to thank all the exhibitors for getting involved in this event on Sunday 4th February. We are confident that as well as providing plenty of luxury and indulgent gifting ideas for Valentine's Day, the event is a novel way of supporting many excellent businesses who take great pride in what they do. We hope it will be well attended by local people, and, indeed, anyone interested in our development."

"There's lots of amazing products available for sale on the stalls where you can pick up inspiration and ideas.

“You can also sample Jack’s amazing chocolates, He’s a very talented young man who is fast making a name for himself in the chocolate and pastry world. We are all really looking forward to watching his chocolate showcase.

“We also think that positioning various producers stalls in the kitchens of our new show apartments is a far more interesting and exciting way to launch them to market.”

The target market for Glenfarg’s homes are couples aged 50 plus. David explained: “They are looking for a lifestyle change. They’ll have more time on their hands to enjoy life, living in our easier – and cheaper – to maintain energy efficient apartments.

“We want to show them that this is such a well situated development in terms of close proximity to fantastic food and leisure opportunities, plus the motorway network of central Scotland. It’s a really vibrant area, with Fife and Edinburgh also easily accessible.

With glass balconies on three levels, Glenfarg Apartments (priced from £237,000) feature an eye-catching and contemporary design. A “downsize but upscale” opportunity for potential buyers, the two bedroom luxury apartments are energy efficient to run with an innovative and unique off-grid Calor gas supply. With open plan layouts, light filled interiors, and the very latest kitchen and bathroom designs, each apartment is individually designed and finished to an exacting standard.

Floor layouts range in size from 842 square feet to 1005 square feet with every apartment having an enclosed balcony. All units have lift access to an underground garage where visitor parking is also provided.

Subject to build schedule, buyers can personalise their choices in the kitchen and bathrooms, choosing from a range of suppliers.
