

Storytime for young and old

Strachan House Care Home, in Edinburgh recently hosted an intergenerational playgroup for residents and members of the local community.

The home welcomed the group from the local Cargilfield Nursery to enjoy some storytelling magic with the residents at the home.

The group of children and colleagues enjoyed a book reading of the Judith Kerr classic 'The Tiger Who Came for Tea' and the more recent story 'Little Goose's autumn' before enjoying a series of games with our residents.

General Manager, Fran Fisher of Strachan House Care Home said: "We invited the group to the home as a way of promoting intergenerational between our seniors and the children. The home had a lot of fun on the day, and they loved seeing our young visitors. If anyone ever wants to stop in for a lovely afternoon with your young ones, or just for a cuppa and a break, we'd love to have you join us."

Strachan House Care Home is run by Barchester Healthcare, one of the UK's largest care providers, which is committed to delivering personalised care across its care homes and hospitals. Strachan House provides residential care, nursing care and dementia care for 83 residents from respite care to long term stays.
