

Martin Boyle released from hospital

Hibernian FC have confirmed on Monday that Martin Boyle has returned home from hospital in the company of his wife and children.

The winger went straight to Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh following the first half collision against Rangers and was given a thorough medical examination to assess the severity of the injury.

The tests came back all clear revealing only that Martin has concussion. He will now rest at home and will follow the concussion protocol.

The Club would like to thank the staff at Edinburgh Royal Infirmary, alongside the stadium ambulance crew, and medical departments at Hibernian FC and Rangers for the treatment they provided to Martin.

Hibs' winger, Martin Boyle playing in an earlier match
Credit: Ian Jacobs