Considering using a moving company

The first tip we'd like to give you when you are moving to Edinburgh for the first time is to consider using a moving company. Moving is a very stressful time for most people, especially when it involves moving to a new city. Therefore, it is important to reduce stress factors. A moving company such as getamover is perfect for this as they take care of everything with their professional staff and experience. That way, you can focus on settling into your new home instead of worrying about the logistics of moving.

Get accustomed to the new city

It is also important to get accustomed to the new city you are in. Edinburgh is known for its rich history and culture, so take some time to explore the city. This does not mean that you just stick to the most famous areas of town; also check out local neighbourhoods such as Leith or Stockbridge for a more authentic experience. Also consider asking around in your own neighbourhood for suggestions on places to visit and things to do. By doing these things, you will quickly develop the feeling of being a local, especially when using public transport to move around.

Embrace local culture

Additionally, it is advisable to go ahead and embrace the local culture. The culture in Edinburgh is quite different compared to other parts of the country. Locals are for example known to be good at chatting and are generally very friendly, so do not be afraid to strike up conversations with people you meet. This also entails trying out local delicacies and discovering the famous pub culture of Edinburgh. Furthermore, make sure to attend events and festivals that are unique to the city, as this will give you a deeper understanding of the local culture and traditions.

Join clubs

Did you know that there are countless types of clubs in the area of Edinburgh? This means the chance is high that you can join one of these clubs that share the same passion that you have. Dance clubs are for example quite popular under locals, meaning you can keep up with your salsa practice. Or what about a football club? Join the local team and make some friends in this way. A lot of opportunities are out there if you want to feel at home straight away in Edinburgh.
