

Scottish doctor opening new aesthetic clinic on Howe Street

Dr David Jack held a VIP dinner at Prestonfield House last night to celebrate the launch of his new aesthetic clinic in Edinburgh and to introduce Scotland to his skincare line.

The guests included Judy Murray who joined Dr Jack at the champagne reception and a private dinner for 50 guests.

As one of London's aesthetic doctors with clinics in Harley Street and Belgravia, this is the Glasgow-born doctor's first clinic back in his native Scotland.

Formerly a consultant with the NHS specialising in the fields of burns, hand surgery and surgical dermatology, Dr Jack claims to be one of the most sought after aesthetic doctors in the UK.

He also says that more than 2,000 Scots have signed up for the waiting list at his new Edinburgh clinic on Howe Street.
