

Sea Cadets looking for volunteers

Sea Cadets Edinburgh Trinity are seeking new Volunteers to jump on board

Are you looking for a new challenge? Do you want to support young people and give them a better head start in life?

If you said yes, then becoming a volunteer with Edinburgh Trinity Sea Cadets could be for you.

Trinity Sea Cadets, based at Claverhouse Training Centre, is currently looking for enthusiastic and dedicated volunteer instructors and trustee members to join their team; they are specifically looking for instructors, fundraisers, a vice chairperson and other general trustee members.

If you have any skills relating to these roles or have a keen interest in any of them, then please do get in contact with the unit. There are no specific educational or experience requirements; having the right attitude and a passion for improving the lives of young people are the most important things!

The aim of Trinity Sea Cadets is to equip young people with the skills they need for life. They help young people develop teamwork, leadership, determination, resilience, and confidence – all essential skills. They follow the rank structure of the Royal Navy, but most importantly, they have fun!

Sea Cadets is a charity organisation and filling these roles is vital for the unit to continue supporting the young people they work with.

To get in touch with the unit and to find out more, email us at info@seacadetsedinburghtrinity.org , the unit would love to hear from you.

During a recent visit by Deidre Brock MP for Edinburgh North and Leith Trinity Cadets spoke to Deidre about issues they felt were close to home, and showcased what the Sea Cadets do to support their local community.'

Deidre Brock MP on a recent visit to the Sea Cadets