

Snowsport charity offering rare chance to see Taylor Swift live

Adaptive ski and snowboard charity, Disability Snowsport UK, are giving Taylor Swift fans the chance to win a highly sought-after ticket for the singer's sold show in Edinburgh on Saturday 8 June.

The online raffle provides an opportunity for one lucky fan to win a concert ticket for the star's record-breaking Eras Tour at Murrayfield Stadium on the second night of three performances taking place in the Scottish capital.

Every £10 raffle ticket sold will help Disability Snowsport UK in empowering people living with disabilities through skiing and snowboarding; enabling disabled people to be more active, make friends and have fun by taking part in snowsport regardless of disability, injury or experience.

The official ticket is a single seat in section E6 in the East Stand of the stadium, upper tier and does not include travel, accommodation or expenses.

Entries close at midnight on Thursday 30 May with no limit on the number of entries that can be purchased per person. The lucky winner will be drawn at random and contacted on 31 May with a mobile ticket issued directly via the official Ticketmaster app. The ticket is strictly non-transferable and not for resale.

Donations to the charity are also welcomed – but it should be noted if you choose to provide a donation addition to the purchase of a raffle ticket or tickets, that donations are separate and do not count as a raffle ticket entry.
