Keith Anderson, captain of the Postal team, right, accepts the trophy from Maule Trophy Association president, Alec Rennie. This venerable trophy was presented in 1910 by Sir Robert Maule who owned the department store at the West End of Princes Street which is now the Johnnie Walker Whisky Experience.

Played on an annual basis the trophy was originally contested by four industry related clubs – Caledonian (railways), Postal (postal services), Parkside (printing) and Tramways (public transport).

Alec Rennie, President of the Maule Trophy Bowling Association, is pictured making the presentation to Postal captain Keith Anderson.
