

Royal Highland Show 2024 – a preview of the Highland Hoolie

Lead singer of indie-folk band, Tide Lines, Robert Robertson, treated a group of fans and visitors to the Ross Fountain to an impromptu acoustic set in Princes Street Gardens on Tuesday.

The band will be headlining this year's family-friendly Royal Highland Hoolie on Friday 21 June (presented by Farmers Bash) as part of The Royal Highland Show.

The Highland Hoolie is a celebration of Scottish Music featuring a line-up of Scottish traditional bands as well as Irish country bands and takes place on Friday 21 and Saturday 22 June.

<https://www.royalhighlandshow.org/hoolie/>

The Royal Highland Show takes place from 20 – 23 June.

Robert got a wee fright though as he began his informal set:

Great busking by Robert from @wearetidelines in Edinburgh today with tickets for the Highland Hoolie @ScotlandRHShow to be won... Timing is key...(listen to the end...)
pic.twitter.com/2Xo2m6b0wT

– Edinburgh Reporter (@EdinReporter) June 11, 2024

*PicsTidelines Lead singer Robert Robertson performs to fans in Princes Street Gardens Edinburgh to promote the Upcoming gig at The Hoolie, Royal Highland Show next weekend