

SEPA advise against swimming at Portobello

SEPA are temporarily advising against bathing and paddling, at Portobello Beach from Pipe Lane to Joppa Rocks, due to the potential risk to human health.

The Scottish Environment Protection Agency (SEPA) have activated electronic signs and the Council is arranging additional signs to be posted to support this advice.

SEPA say they are working closely with The City of Edinburgh Council and Scottish Water to investigate and “will continue to monitor the situation”.

Council Leader Cammy Day said: “We’re aware of SEPA’s current advice against bathing and paddling at Portobello beach and I’d request that people follow the advice.

“The matter is currently under investigation, and we’ll continue to liaise with SEPA and our partners to monitor the situation.”

Further information on Scotland’s Bathing Waters is available on SEPA’s website.