

Holy Corner Community Playgroup is assessed as good by inspectors

The Holy Corner Community Playgroup has received a “good” report from Education Scotland following a recent inspection.

Inspectors commended the staff and families on their close working relationship which creates a “nurturing and inclusive ethos”. It is this which allows the children to make supportive connections helping them to “learn and be confident”.

The report issued today offers a couple of minor improvements by planning and monitoring progress.

The playgroup is owned by The City of Edinburgh Council.
