

Out of town Sunday lunch is being served now in the conservatory

The Old Manor Hotel at Lundin Links has reintroduced its Sunday Roast Sunday now that refurbishment of bedrooms and common areas is complete.

From noon each week, The Old Manor serves up a roast dinner for all the family. Home-made Yorkshire puddings, herb roasted potatoes, seasonal vegetables, and a red wine jus are on the menu priced at £19 per person. The hotel serves lunch in its Seaview conservatory restaurant, with sweeping views across Lundin Links Golf Course, to the sea beyond.

Diners may add a homemade dessert to their Sunday treat, from a wide choice available, at an additional cost.

“We’re really pleased to unveil this new product,” said Operations Manager at The Old Manor, Steven Carleschi.

“Since the hotel was acquired by the Wallace Family, of Pettycur Bay, a few years ago, we’ve been slowly and surely refining all our offers. We have brought the hotel up to a new standard, whilst also making sure that we have the right people, in the right roles, to lead this business forward.”

“Our coastal Hotel has masses of potential, and is in such a beautiful location. This is the perfect place at which to enjoy a traditional Roast Sunday Lunch, something which is enjoying a resurgence in popularity of late.”

“Come in after enjoying a round of golf, or walking the coastal path, for example.

“We look forward to welcoming guests on a Sunday. Our mouthwatering roast is offered at an extremely affordable price so that people can get together with family and friends.”
