

EU watch party in Edinburgh

The Citizens Rights Project is holding a Summit for Change on Monday 9 September at Augustine United Church on George IV Bridge.

Members of the group are coming together for a watch party “to come together in solidarity”.

The party will tune in to watch an event taking place in London where keynote speakers such as Pedro Serrano (the EU Ambassador to the UK) and Nick Thomas-Symonds (Minister for the Cabinet Office and Minister for the Constitution and European Union Relations) will talk about the importance of EU citizens’ rights in the EU/UK future relationship.

Many EU citizens are expected to attend both the Edinburgh and London events to share their personal experiences. The aim is to secure commitments from different political parties from a panel of MPs who will react to the proposals set out in the group’s Manifesto for Change.

the3million and Citizens Rights Project Scotland warmly invite you to

EU CITIZENS' SUMMIT FOR CHANGE EDINBURGH WATCH PARTY

AUGUSTINE UNITED CHURCH, 41 GEORGE IV BRIDGE, EH1 1EL

Join us to demonstrate the collective power of our communities to key decision-makers within the newly elected Parliament! The first 100 days of Government are a crucial moment to put the priority issues affecting EU citizens onto the political agenda and secure clear public commitments.

Let's turn up to signal that communities in Scotland want to be heard and counted too! From 18:00-20:00 we will be watching the livestream from the Summit in London on a large screen. Light refreshments will be provided. From 20-20:30 we will hold an informal group discussion and network with one another.
