

Regular police patrols announced to address anti-social behaviour in Nicolson Square area.

Police in Edinburgh are working with partners to address anti-social behaviour in the Nicolson Square area.

Officers are carrying out regular patrols in the area and engaging with the public.

Anyone with information on those responsible is asked to contact the force.

A police spokesperson said: "We are aware of anti-social behaviour in the Nicolson Square area of Edinburgh and working with partners to address concerns in the local community.

"Officers are monitoring the area and carrying out regular patrols as well as engaging with the public.

"We will take appropriate action where necessary and anyone with concerns or who has information about those responsible should contact us via 101."