

Police searching for missing man find body in wooded area near Mayfield

Police officers searching for missing man Robert Blair have found a man's body in wooded area near Mayfield.

Officers issued a renewed appeal this morning,

"A formal identification has still to take place, but officers are liaising with Mr Blair's family. The death is not being treated as suspicious.

A spokesperson for Police Scotland said: "Around 12.25pm on Wednesday, October 9, police were notified a man's body had been found in a wooded area in the Mayfield area of Dalkeith.

"Formal identification has still to take place, however we believe it to be 67-year-old Robert Blair who was missing from Dalkeith.

"Officers are liaising with Mr Blair's family. The death is not being treated as suspicious.
