

Hibs striker Mykola Kuharevich to miss today's clash with Ross County

Hibs striker Mykola Kuharevich will miss today's clash with Ross County.

The Ukrainian was forced off with a suspected groin injury during the first half of Hibs defeat to Celtic last weekend.

Unfortunately, further scans have revealed that the 23-year-old will be out for a number of weeks.

Head coach David Gray provided the latest update on the player at the pre match press conference on Friday.

He said: "Myko picked up a little bit of a groin issue, which we saw at the weekend which forced him off the pitch.

"Unfortunately, he will be out for a couple of weeks – it is nothing too serious, which is positive – but he will miss this game for sure.

"We have got strength and depth and players that can play in that position, so it gives someone else the opportunity to step in and play in that area.

"Apart from that, it will be a similar squad to last weekend."
