

Police issue advice to people planning to attend this year's Hogmanay party

Police in the capital are urging those attending this year's Hogmanay party to plan ahead and be mindful of weather forecast and travel arrangements.

Edinburgh's Hogmanay returns from 29 December 2024 into New Year's Day, welcoming the world to party into 2025 at the 'Home of Hogmanay!'

Launching the Edinburgh Hogmanay festival and signalling the start of global New Year celebrations, the Torchlight Procession will take place on 29th December from 18:30 hours from the Meadows.

A Police Scotland spokesperson said: If you have plans to attend any of the Hogmanay events please make sure to plan ahead , being mindful of weather forecast and travel arrangements.

"For all the latest updates and FAQ's regarding Edinburgh's Hogmanay please visit:

Hogmanay | <https://orlo.uk/EBQPM>

"We hope everyone who joins the celebrations from near and far has a wonderful time."