

Dog of the week – Annie

Animal charity, Dogs Trust, have proposed Annie, a two-year-old Crossbreed, as their dog of the week.

This is a very sweet-natured dog, but she can be unsure of new people until she gets to know them. However once the bond has been made, she becomes an affectionate best pal.

Annie loves attention from her human friends and enjoys a fuss and a snuggle. She loves to play with toys, so playtime is the best fun.

The young dog can be worried at times, so is looking for experienced and understanding owners who will give her the time and support to help build her confidence. She is uncomfortable around other dogs so prefers to be walked in quiet areas away from other dogs and must be the only pet in her forever home.

A secure garden where she can enjoy off lead playtime is a must as playing is her favourite pastime. She could live in a home with children aged 16 and over, so if you are looking for a playful, loving and loyal canine companion, Annie could be the one for you.
