

Major search after clothing found on Edinburgh beach

A major search has been taking place in the River Forth on Sunday afternoon after abandoned clothing was found on a beach in Edinburgh.

Coastguards and RNLI lifeboat crews from South Queensferry and Kinghorn were despatched.

A spokesperson for RNLI South Queensferry said: "Our team have been out searching the coastline around Silverknowes Beach in Edinburgh this afternoon after a set of clothes was located on the shoreline close to the Boardwalk Beach Cafe.

"We are seeking any information if any members of the public may have seen anyone wearing the clothes pictured below in this area around noon today (9th Feb).

"If you have any information in relation to this incident please call 999 and ask for Coastguard."

A spokesperson from HM Coastguard said: "At 12.53pm today, HM Coastguard received reports of unattended clothing east of Crammond Village, near to Edinburgh, Scotland.

"Coastguard Rescue Teams from South Queensferry, Leven and Fisherrow were called to conduct a search, alongside RNLI lifeboats from South Queensferry and Kinghorn.

"Police Scotland have also been informed and the incident remains ongoing."
