

Billy Joel's Murrayfield concert rescheduled due to medical condition

Billy Joel's upcoming concert dates, including one at Edinburgh's Scottish Gas Murrayfield will be rescheduled due to a medical condition.

Originally scheduled for June 2025, the two exclusive performances – at Edinburgh's Scottish Gas Murrayfield and Liverpool's Anfield Stadium – will now take place the following year on Saturday 6 June and Saturday 20 June, respectively.

All purchased tickets will automatically be valid for the rescheduled shows. If you are unable to attend, refunds will be available from point of purchase.

The current tour will be postponed for four months to allow him to recover from recent surgery and to undergo physical therapy under the supervision of his doctors. Joel is expected to make a full recovery. The tour will resume at Acrisure Stadium in Pittsburgh on July 5, 2025.

Joel says, "While I regret postponing any shows, my health must come first. I look forward to getting back on stage and sharing the joy of live music with our amazing fans. Thank you for your understanding."

All purchased tickets will automatically be valid for the rescheduled shows. If you are unable to attend, refunds will be available from point of purchase.