Why Declutter Before You Travel?

- 1. Less Stress, More Space: You may underestimate the joys of returning home after an incredible to a tidy organised home. A tidy home means less to worry about while you're away and means you can continue to relax once you get home, and don't have to get stuck into any chores.
- 2. Fund Your Experiences: You may have funds sorted for your Edinburgh getaway, but converting forgotten items into cash can enhance your holiday! Think guided tours of Edinburgh Castle, exploring the Royal Mile, or dining out in the vibrant Grassmarket.
- 3. Refresh and Replace: We all love to accumulate souvenirs, but areas in your home can get cluttered. Why not sell some older items to make way for reminders of your latest adventures.

5 Decluttering Tips for Travellers

1. Start with “Trip Goals” in Mind

One of the most difficult parts of decluttering is motivating yourself to start, it’s one of those jobs we procrastinate on time and time again. Build some motivation by picturing your Edinburgh itinerary: it could be strolling along Princes Street Gardens, hiking Arthur’s Seat, or visiting the National Museum of Scotland. Each item you sell can get you closer to enjoying Edinburgh’s charming cafés or an evening at the Edinburgh Playhouse.

2. Tackle Forgotten “Traveller’s Gold”

There are some items you can find that are easy big wins. While sorting through drawers, keep an eye out for:

- Broken or mismatched jewellery: Even damaged gold jewellery pieces can hold huge value. Look for gold hallmarks, or send the pieces to an online gold selling service if you are unsure.
- Unwanted coins or commemorative items: Old sovereigns coins in mounts or gifted trinkets often gather dust are now worth a small fortune! With one full gold Sovereign fetching over £520.
- Watch bands or cufflinks: Solid gold watch bracelets, and cufflinks can convert to serious money when sold.

Modern online gold selling services make taking the decision to sell gold hassle-free. Simply post items for a free valuation, and receive payment quickly, no need to visit a physical shop. This means more time to plan your Edinburgh adventures!

3. Repurpose Old Tech

Dig out old phones, tablets, or cameras which we throw into the bed side drawer and forget about. Selling these can fund a day trip to Edinburgh Zoo or tickets for a rugby match at Murrayfield Stadium. Use online comparison tools to get the best price for your old tech.

4. Refresh Your Wardrobe

Clear out unworn clothes and accessories. There are many new platforms such as Vinted, that allow for selling pre-owned goods free of charge, and make it a very simple process. Ebay has now also moved to the 'free selling' model. Use proceeds for stylish walking boots perfect for hikes up Arthur's Seat or a new outfit for dining out in Edinburgh's Old Town.

5. Vintage Toys

There is a huge market for vintage toys sold through online marketplaces. Even old VHS tapes can fetch good money online if in good condition. Have a look through the attic to see if you can locate and 90's or earlier toys or games. Try look the items up on marketplaces like eBay, remember to sort the listings by 'Sold' so you can see what value these items have actually achieved. Extra funds could mean enjoying a picturesque ride on the nearby heritage railway lines, such as the Bo'ness & Kinneil Railway.

How Your Decluttering Fuels Edinburgh Adventures

Imagine trading your broken and tangled gold necklace for:

- Afternoon tea at The Dome.
- A guided walking tour of Edinburgh's historic Old Town.
- A memorable night at a charming hotel in Leith.

By selling unwanted items, you're not just tidying up, you're recycling and can invest in experiences that make trips truly unforgettable.
