

Police charge 48-year-old man identified riding off-road motor bikes in city

Police officers from the Edinburgh's south-east community team have identified a male who had been riding electric off-road motor cycles illegally throughout the city centre of Edinburgh.

Officers have now charged a 48-year-old man with six offences.

These offences include – driving with no insurance, driving without a helmet and driving without a valid licence

The bike has been removed from him and and police spokesperson said that the circumstances will be reported to the courts.