

Still no trace of missing man despite 'extensive and specialist' searches

POLICE SCOTLAND UPDATE 31 March 2025: "Coen Bust, 47, who had been reported missing from Edinburgh, has been traced.

Thanks to everyone who shared our appeals.

Police are continuing to appeal for information to help trace Coen Bust, two weeks on since he was reported missing.

Mr Bust, 47, travelled to the Dunkeld area by train from Edinburgh on Thursday, 13 March.

There have been no confirmed sightings since he arrived at Dunkeld train station at 10.18am.

Today, officers will be at Edinburgh Waverley and Dunkeld train stations and anyone who has any information is urged to speak with these officers.

Mr Bust is described as white, of heavy build, with a long, grey beard. He is thought to be wearing a mustard-yellow jacket and carrying a rucksack and a red/orange metal water bottle.

Inspector James Longden, Blairgowrie Police Office, said: "Since Mr Bust was reported missing, we have carried out extensive and specialist searches and enquiries across the area, but unfortunately, we have not yet been able to trace him.

"Two weeks on these searches continue in the Dunkeld and Birnam areas and we are continuing to ask for any information that could help us locate him.

"Anyone with any information of where Mr Bust is or could be should call Police Scotland on 101 and quote reference 2616 of Thursday, 13 March."
