NATIONAL YOUTH ORCHESTRAS OF SCOTLAND

SPRING - SUMMER 2022

Welcome

It is a tremendous privilege to share this programme of concerts from the National Youth Orchestras of Scotland with you.

The resilience and enthusiasm of our young players have provided hope and optimism during unprecedented and challenging times for musicians and music organisations alike. After this testing period, I am thrilled to begin my time at NYOS by celebrating our first live concerts in over two years.

Under the guidance of exceptional instrumental tutors from across Scotland, our players will perform alongside world-class soloists, conductors and guest artists, including violist and BBC New Generation Artist Timothy Ridout, and Natalia Luis-Bassa, a renowned leader in youth music and Professor of Conducting at the Royal College of Music, who returns to conduct the Junior Orchestra for a third year.

The 2022 programme features some of the very best orchestral and jazz repertoire, including Ravel's relentlessly inventive Daphnis et Chloé Suites Nos.1 & 2, a rare opportunity for the Senior Orchestra to perform a Beethoven symphony as a chamber-sized ensemble, and The Oak by Florence Price, the first American woman of colour to have her work performed by a major orchestra in the 1930s.

Our programme also explores contemporary repertoire, with the Jazz Orchestra performing bespoke arrangements by this year's artist in residence, Julian Joseph, as part of its 30th anniversary celebrations. Our Senior Orchestra perform Jupiter's Fairground, a concert overture by British composer Eleanor Alberga, whose work is celebrated internationally for its emotional impact, depth of craft, brilliant colouring and orchestration.

I look forward to this wonderful series of performances from Scotland's most promising young musicians and hope to welcome you to a concert very soon.

We Are Back

We are thrilled that 2022 will mark our return to the concert platform. Beyond that one immeasurable highlight, our forthcoming season showcases our performers, across our classical and jazz ensembles, in programmes full of dazzling orchestral colour, and the very latest contemporary jazz arrangements, designed to challenge and inspire.

NYOS Junior Orchestra will perform an entire symphony, a real feat for our accomplished younger players. NYOS Senior Orchestra adopts a new form in 2022, reimagined as a chamber-sized orchestra. This will introduce our musicians to a new orchestral setting, with more opportunities for solo playing, and a more intimate, conversational style of music-making. NYOS Symphony Orchestra renews its partnership with the Royal Scottish National Orchestra and will feature as part of the RSNO season in spring before its summer tour.

Once again, we are joined by fantastic soloists and internationally renowned conductors. These include award-winning saxophonist Jess Gillam, who has built an international performance, recording and broadcasting career after becoming the first saxophone player to reach the BBC Young Musician Final in 2016. Jess performs with NYOS Symphony Orchestra in spring under the baton of Kerem Hasan, winner of the Salzburg Festival Young Conductors Award.

NYOS Jazz celebrates its 30th anniversary, acknowledging a long history of prestigious national and international performances with some of the world's best jazz musicians. Following the Jazz Summer School in the breathtaking surroundings on the Isle of Skye, the Jazz Orchestra will embark on a Scottish tour, performing bespoke arrangements by this year's artist in residence, Julian Joseph.

Alongside our performances, we will continue with projects in schools and communities across Scotland, and our programme of training and work opportunities for recent music graduates.

We very much hope that you will join us at a concert in the near future.

NYOS Jazz BopCamp provides young instrumentalists and vocalists with opportunities to refine their improvisation, solo and ensemble skills. It is also an important step along the NYOS Jazz pathway to participation in the flagship Jazz Orchestra.

Participants perform a wide range of big band repertoire including traditional jazz standards and more modern repertoire; through this they also learn key jazz history.

Play *y*our part

Help ensure the future for youth music in Scotland by donating to NYOS

Play your part and support our young musicians as they return to the concert platform this year by making a donation to NYOS.

Forced to cancel all in-person activities for almost two years, NYOS has lost hundreds of thousands of pounds in income as a result of the pandemic. It was only thanks to the generosity of our supporters that we were able to provide much-needed digital opportunities for young musicians isolated at home and prevented from playing with their peers.

In 2022, we are thrilled to be welcoming our young musicians and audiences back, and your support is now more vital than ever as we begin this recovery phase with ambitious plans.

Many of our costs have now increased post-pandemic. We are still determined, however, to cap all fees at an affordable level and offer additional bursaries, ensuring that players pay no more than one-third of the total cost of taking part in a NYOS course. The remaining two-thirds is covered by us with support from our donors and funders. In addition, bursaries of up to 100% are offered each year so that no young person misses out due to financial circumstances.

Join us

You can make a single donation or a regular gift through one of our membership programmes
